Fees for lab and facility use

From: Pilar Aston <crjspilar@aol.com>

To: Danheiser_P <Danheiser_P@mercer.edu>

Date: Mon, Jan 24, 2011 1:54 pm

Dr. Danheiser

In looking at my account summary I see that I have fees that are charged to my account in both fall and spring despite my classes being online and independent study. I was unaware that student are charged the fees and there is no use of the mercer lab of facilities. I contacted the bursar with forwarded me to the register office. I was told that the dean has to request that these fees are removed and to contact you.

Dr. Danheiser, I contacted the Bursar and spoke with Sheri Meeks and was told she had not received any contact from your office.

The fees included Fall and Spring Facility and lab fees.

Pilar,

I am very sorry that this is taking so long to iron out. We are working on a solution. I have sent the information to the Bursar and am waiting to hear back from her. I am out of the office today, but will follow up with her tomorrow to see if we can finally resolve the issue.

My apology,

I know your situation must be way more complex (and possibly irritating) than I can possibly imagine.

You are obviously intelligent and I am under no illusions that spending a lot of time on INFM 110 will have any real positive impact on your personal success or quality of life.

Therefore, yes, we are "done" with 110. You can leave the book with Crystal at the Henry County RAC or mail it to me at 849 Wera Place, Macon, GA 31210. I'll submit paperwork for a passing grade in the class. (Given what you have experienced, a "B.")

REMINDER: Grace period 4 months remaining

Dear Borrower,

Your loan is currently in a grace period and has 4 months remaining. A payment is not due at this time.

We would like to take this opportunity to advise you on credit reporting and your credit rating. Your credit history is very important. This student loan is one of your first opportunities to establish good credit. This notice explains how the credit system works and how you can help yourself when your turn to repay your loan comes around.

According to federal law, we have notified your credit bureau of this debt. Since your promissory note allows a payment free grace period, you currently have a clean rating.

We send updates to the credit bureau for the life of your loan. A favorable rating on this loan will put you in good standing when you need credit elsewhere. Likewise, a poor credit rating will negatively affect you.

Meanwhile, if you have borrowed from several lenders you may want to find out about loan consolidation. Loan consolidation results in a single monthly payment, usually less than the total you would pay monthly without consolidation. A lengthened repayment period and flexible repayment plans may also be available.

Sincerely,

Mercer University

DEPARTMENT OF COUNSELING AND HUMAN SCIENCES

Arthur Williams, Chair/Associate Professor

Priscilla Danheiser and Kyra L.Osmus, Professors

William D. Lane, Laurie L. Lankin, Billy J. Slaton, and Kevin L. Wickes, Associate Professors

Marna Burns, Lynn Clemons, and Mary Saunders, Assistant Professors

Richard Bohannon, Nancy Gup, Ron Holt, and Charles Weston, Visiting Assistant Professors

The Department of Counseling and Human Sciences offers major programs in criminal justice and human services, and minors in applied sociology, criminal justice, human services, and applied psychology in the centers. A degree program in organization leadership is offered in Douglas County and Henry County. A master's degree program in community counseling is offered on the Atlanta campus.

Counseling and Human Sciences Department Goal Statement

The Counseling and Human Sciences Department maintains a commitment to student learning through effective teaching, service, and research. The faculty strive to facilitate critical thinking and a life-long interest in learning in an environment of intellectual and spiritual freedom in an atmosphere that encourages compassion, understanding, and responsibility. A comprehensive set of educational programs are offered to meet the needs of students interested in the general fields of applied sociology, applied psychology, human services, criminal justice, organization leadership and counseling.

Counseling and Human Sciences Department Objectives

1. To create an environment for the development of critical thinking skills which contribute to education as a life-long process.
2. To develop a knowledge base and skills that enable students to interact in a diverse, technologically complex society by emphasizing the relationship between theory and practice.
3. To cultivate a community of learning characterized by high ethical standards and an understanding of diversity.
4. To provide and promote academic programs that will respond effectively to professional communities.
5. To provide and encourage opportunities for faculty development in consultation, teaching, service, and research.

Academic Standards Committee require some entering students to enroll in and successfully complete one or more of the foundation courses as part of their admissions process, specifically, provisionally admitted students and all international students.

DEPARTMENT OF INFORMATION SYSTEMS

Kenneth W. Revels, Chair/Assistant Professor

Gary W. Blome, Assistant Professor

Feng Liu, Visiting Assistant Professor

Charles Byrd, Jr., Instructor

The Department of Information Systems offers a degree program and a minor that focus on: 1) basic theory and design of computers and computer systems, 2) programming techniques and 3) practical applications of information systems, including networks, data communication and systems development to meet specific organizational requirements.

Program Goals

Students will be exposed to a learning environment that is structured to allow students unlimited access to multiple resources within and outside of the classroom. The department will:

- Offer an undergraduate education based upon a strong liberal arts foundation with emphasis on information systems.
- Foster critical thinking within the classroom, within professional environments and in personal contexts.
- Focus on cultivating an appreciation for the centrality of information systems in a variety of social contexts.
- Refine students' abilities to more precisely express themselves that allow them to make significant contributions in their workplace, community and in the world.
- Encourage tolerance, compassion, understanding and responsibility.

Program Objectives

Upon completion of a program of study in information systems, students will:

1. Be able to demonstrate an understanding of information systems principles relevant in professional contexts.
2. Be able to address fundamental questions about the way technology shapes human consciousness, interaction and social structures.
3. Be able to describe the ways information technology is integrated in professional, personal and larger social contexts.
4. Be able to integrate information systems concepts and theories into current business operations.

Hello,

I apologize for neglecting you. I'm working on the missing syllabi and will set things up so they will be doable by the end of Session 2.

For 395, what books have you found? I should be able to fill in the gaps. Also, check the syllabus. I think it provides an alternative to the paper.

Dr. Blome,
Hello, first the 30 page paper for 395, three of the assigned book or either out of print are out dated at Barnes and Nobles books .Could you please either suggest other are advise the best way to solve this issue. Second I need the syllabus for the other independent classes I have you for especially 162 the class from last session. Thanks for your time and all assistants is appreciated. Also instead of the 30 pages would you consider a power point for 395?

If you don't have digital files already, fax is OK. I'm setting up a programming "project" that will satisfy 162 course requirements when you finish it. You will need to submit that as digital files.

For 350, rework the final and incorporate the material I gave you in December.

Gary Blome

P.S. Don't let this stress you out. You will be able to work through it.

Final Programming Exercise

Design and code a Python program that will compute and return the area of both a triangle and rectangle with the same base and height.

Input specification. The program will ask the user to input values for both base and height, expressed in linear units. The program should be able to accept either integer or floating-point values.

Output specification. The program will display two statements in this general format:

The area of a _____ with a height of _____ units and a base of _____ units is _____ square units.

Exercise deliverables:

1. (2 points) Program pseudo code.
2. (2 points) Program flow chart or structure chart.
3. (6 points) Executable code.

Wikipedia may be used as a source for material related to flow chart and pseudo code development.

To save time and prevent wasted effort, complete program pseudo code and submit it for preliminary review before attempting to create executable code.

Got it. And, I am still working on your 162. I had surgery last week and it has slowed even my usual glacial pace.

I'll be submitting an "A" for 350 later today.

We need to talk about 162 – I'll be at the Henry RAC Monday from around 5:15 until about 6:00. If you need a different time, let me know.
